Governor Frank Frantz in finding fault with the salaries for county and state officers, as fixed by the constitutional convention, did not refer to the two salaries he drew at the same time, one as Indian agent and another as townsite commissioner in the Osage nation.

"Yes, I am a Republican," said a prominent grain dealer yesterday, "and I propose to vote for the constitution. It is all right for the politicians to kick, but the business and shipping interests demand statehood. We can settle minor differences among ourselves, but ask congress for another enabling act, never!"

The "pie-wumps" at Guthrie who are trying to save their jobs can get but few Republicans who are willing to play politics at the expense of statehood.

The salaries for state and county officers established by the constitutional convention will be an inducement for honest men to run for office. They will not have to make two hundred per cent on their money for taking care of insane and unfortunate persons, nor break banks to rob school children of the school funds.

SALARIES TOO HIGH, SAYS GOVERNOR FRANTZ.

Governor Frantz, in a speech recently delivered at Ada, pointed out the tremendous extravagance of statehood, claiming that our state and county government will cost the people $1,000,000 annually. The real reason why this sum looks so large to Mr. Frantz is that neither he nor any of his brother "pie-wumps" will ever get to handle the funds. He forgets, however, to point out the fact that this sum, large as he claims it will be, can be easily raised when the railroads and other special interests are compelled to pay their just proportion of taxes. The amount saved to the people in freight rates on either coal, grain or lumber would, under an honest board of corporation commissioners, would be many times this amount, and we should have the fun of governing ourselves free of cost.

Governor Frantz's growth politically has been forced purely by the appointive route, and the Republican party has done much more for him than he has done for the party. He is one of the President's "Teddy bears" who sees his job slipping away, and his statements should not be taken with any degree of seriousness.

ADVERTIZING CITIES.

More cities and more municipalities are coming to the point of setting forth their advantages in systematic advertising campaigns, conducted on a business basis, the same as a manufacturer would conduct a similar campaign. Cities all over the country are adopting this idea, and not cities alone, but whole regions. Commenting on this idea the St. Joseph News Press has the following:

"The idea of municipal advertising is growing immensely and numerous cities are actively engaged in publishing to the world their diverse advantages. Atlanta, Ga., is one of them. St. Paul, Minn., has just organized a publicity bureau which will, within the next three years, spend $150,000 in advertising that city. Los Angeles, Portland, Salt Lake City, Denver—practically all the western municipalities of large and small importance—have for many years conducted systematic publicity campaigns. Many of the western states maintain similar movements, and it is to this activity that the remarkably quick and stable development of the West is largely attributable. In the South, Nashville, Lynchburg, Charleston, Houston, Montgomery and New Orleans have organizations incessantly at work preaching the advantages of their respective communities. These efforts are worth while. The American business man, individually and in the mass, is waking up to the value of advertising. Cities as well as citizens are realizing that the municipality which does not indulge, sanely and discriminately, in publicity, writes its name among the 'dead ones'."
